A woman with dark hair, wearing a white sweater, is seated at a desk in a dimly lit office. She has a distressed expression, with her right hand covering her mouth and nose. She is looking down at a document she is holding, which appears to be a Dutch tax form titled 'het eigenendom' (the property). On the desk in front of her are several other documents, including one with a grid of checkboxes, and a laptop. The background shows a desk with a computer monitor and some framed pictures. The overall mood is one of frustration or stress related to financial or administrative tasks.

As an entrepreneur you deserve a financial assistant

What OkiOki does for you

She collects all your digital invoices at your suppliers

She scans, recognizes and classifies all your documents

She keeps all your documents in a safe online archive

She tracks the payment status of your purchase and sales invoices

She checks the completeness of your administration and sends everything to your accountant

She keeps you up-to-date at any time

What you do with OkiOki

You digitize your paper invoices & receipts

You consult your administration, any time, any place

You pay your invoices in time and at ease

You create and send offers and sales invoices

You consult your bank transactions and credit card expenses

OkiOki collects your digital invoices automatically.

OkiOki crawls your e-mail in search for invoices and receipts. But she not only captures attached invoices. She converts e-mail receipts into PDFs (NMBS, Apple, ...) , tracks download links in the e-mail (Telenet, Engie, ...) and browses your supplier portals (Esso Card Online, Partena, ...) to get you the invoice.

OkiOki scans, recognizes and classifies all your documents.

OkiOki scans (OCR) every document for structured data: the invoice date, the supplier, the amount including and excluding tax, the tax rates, the invoice number or payment reference number, ... OkiOki also automatically classifies your document according to the document type (incoming invoicing, credit note, receipt, ...).

So less work for you and super handy to quickly search & find your documents in your OkiOki archive. And OkiOki also sends this information to your accountant so they can process your documents more efficiently.

The image shows a smartphone screen with the OkiOki app interface. The app has a dark green header with a back arrow, a 'Document' tab, and a 'Data' tab. Below the header, the document details are displayed in a light blue box. The details include the date 'APR 13, 2021', the supplier 'OKAY', and the invoice number 'BE36 2930 2506 7481'. The amount is shown as 'EUR 17,97'. The document type is 'Incoming invoice'. The app also shows the VAT rate of 6% and the OkiOki ID '210390'.

Easily digitize your 'paper' work with OkiOki.

Want to digitize an invoice or receipt? Just snap a photo with your OkiOki app and you're done. But you can also use your office scanner or your favorite scanning app and transfer every digitized document easily to OkiOki. Therefore you can send it to your personal OkiOki email address or drop it into a cloud folder you connect with OkiOki. Whichever way you choose, your documents arrive automatically into your OkiOki archive.

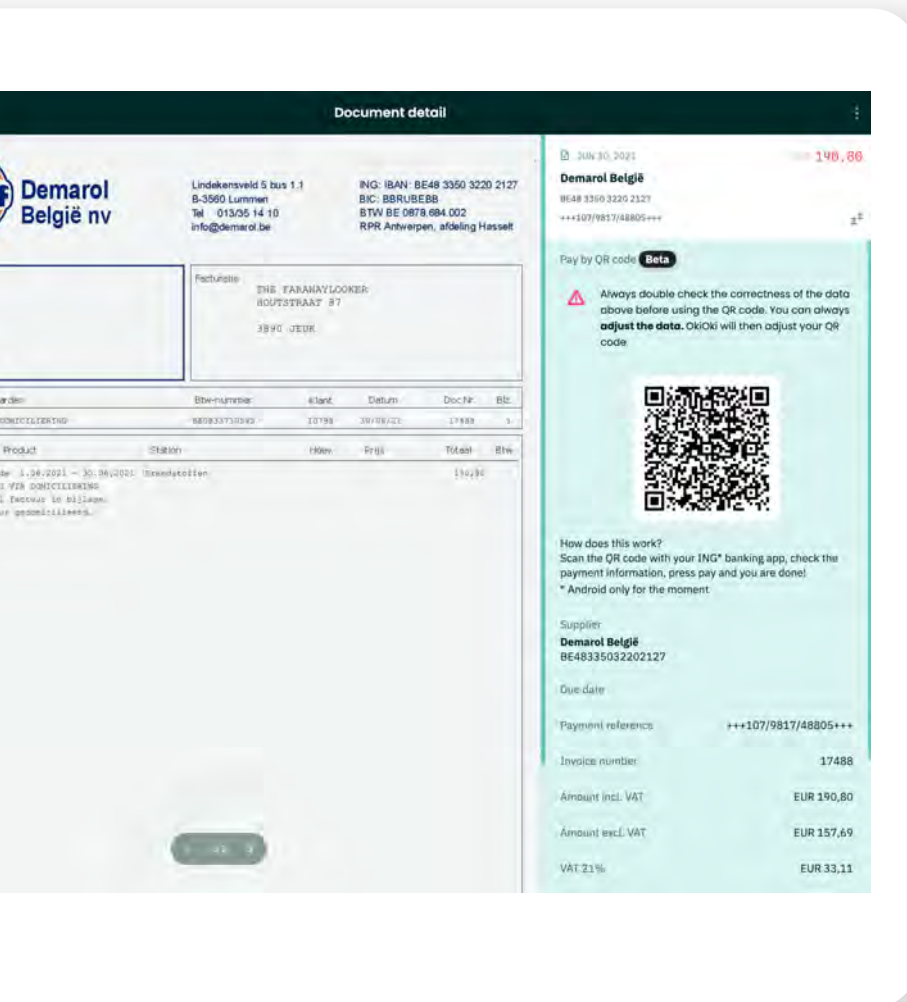

OkiOki tracks the payment status of your purchase and sales invoices.

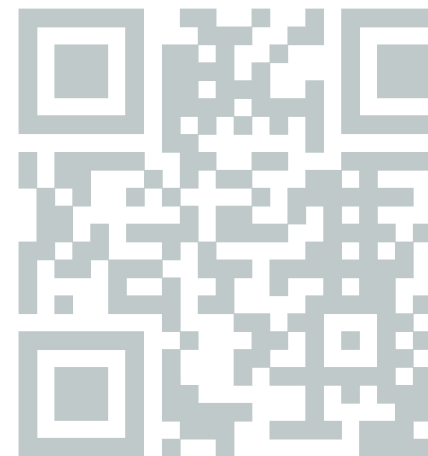

OkiOki connects directly with your bank account. No need for complex mandates, bank statements or coda files. And OkiOki reads your credit card statements. This way she keeps tracks of all your transactions, the financial heartbeat of your business. By matching every invoice with your transactions, OkiOki can tell which invoice is left unpaid. So goodbye to paying fines for late payments or unnoticed late-paying clients.

Pay your purchase invoices by scanning a QR code. It's as easy as that.

You can pay invoices super easily by scanning a QR code. For every unpaid purchase invoice, OkiOki creates a QR code herself and displays it to you on your PC or tablet. You can scan this QR code with your banking app* which will prepare a bank transfer for you with all data prefilled. Easy, not?

* Belfius, KBC, BNPPF, ING, Fintro, Argenta, ...

OkiOki sends your sales invoices and their reminders to your clients.

You can create and send sales invoices in OkiOki. Because OkiOki tracks the payment status of your invoices herself, she will later also automatically send payment reminders to your clients. Leaving you all the time to do to fun talking with them. Do you use already a cloud invoicing software? No worries, OkiOki integrates seamlessly.

All you bank and credit card expenses at a glance.

You can connect multiple current accounts at multiple banks with OkiOki. This way you can view all your transactions in one place and you also get a consolidated cash flow overview in return. No more need to log in to different banking apps. On top of that, OkiOki also creates a handy overview of all statements and transactions of your credit cards. You have never had all your bank details so easily at hand.

OkiOki sends all your documents to your accountant.

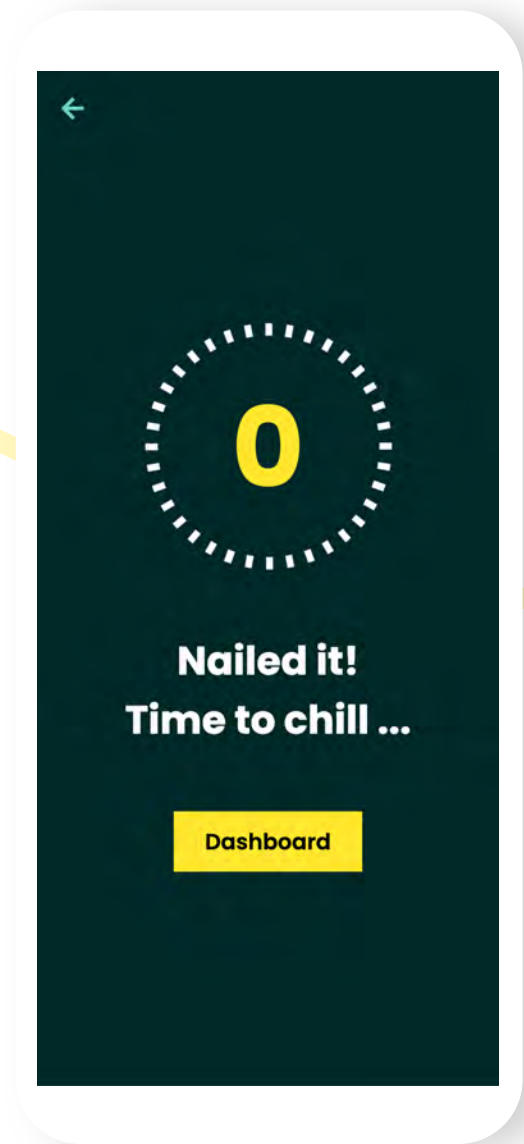

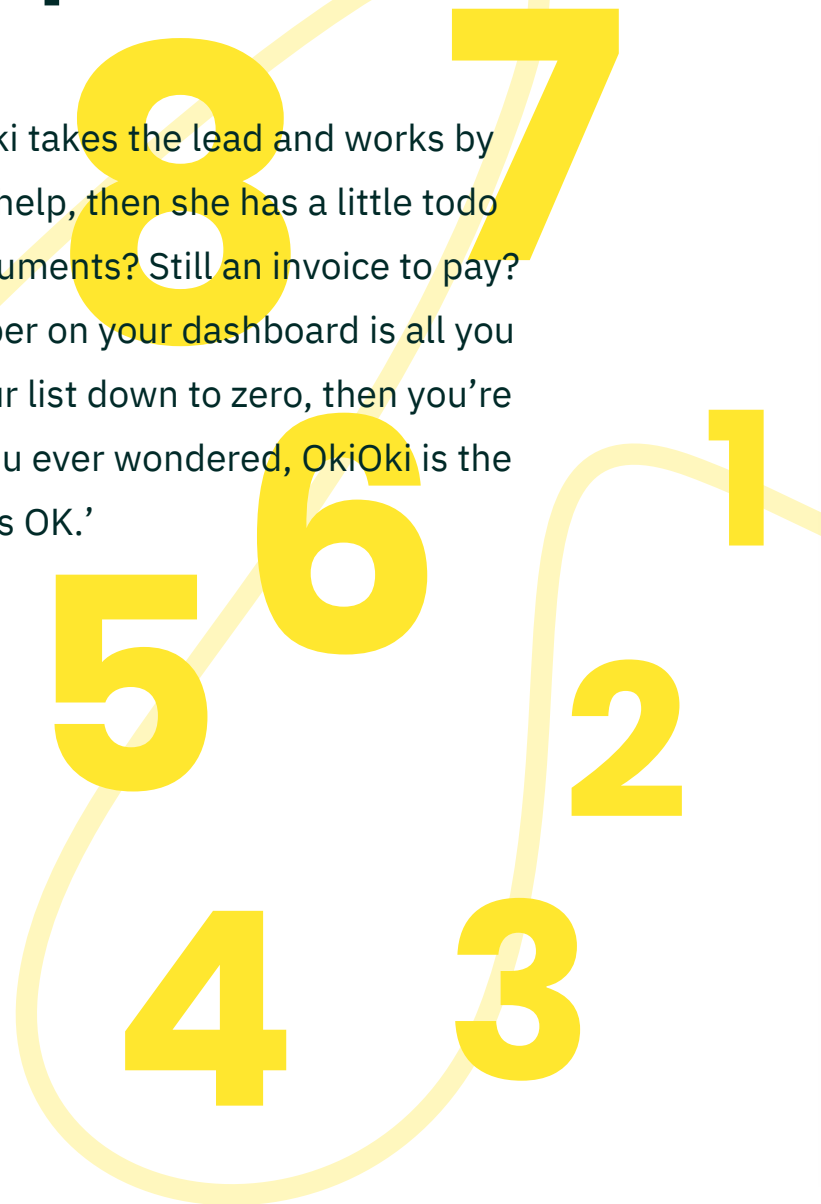

OkiOki teams up with your accountant. She sends all documents including your comments & tags and the payment information automatically to the accountancy software. This way, the tax submission work for the accountant is spread over time. And there is more time for advice at the end of the quarter.

Your accountant configures your OkiOki account for you in order to have OkiOki send all the documents to them. So don't worry about that. ;-)

OkiOki keeps you on track, any time, any place.

As a true personal assistant, OkiOki takes the lead and works by herself. But if she does need your help, then she has a little todo list ready for you. Any missing documents? Still an invoice to pay? A late-payer? The big yellow number on your dashboard is all you need to keep an eye on. And is your list down to zero, then you're done and 100% OkiOki. In case you ever wondered, OkiOki is the Maori word for 'Relax! Everything is OK.'

You just need a 'sidekick' for automatically collecting all your invoices?

Don't need to track the payment status of your invoices? Or don't need OkiOki to remind you which documents you are still missing?

Then use OkiOki only as your personal 'sidekick' for automatically collecting all your invoices. And to automatically deliver them to your accountant.

The OkiOki way: choosing for an active assistant and not for a passive portal.

Accountancy portals today are passive. They expect you to keep an eye on your mailbox, to download your invoices in time, to log in to the portal and to upload the invoices again, to track the payment statuses, to keep the overview, ... They expect you to be in the lead and do the work.

OkiOki however does the work for you. She keeps your administration effortless on track via smart automatisations and her motivational approach.

So, which way do you choose?

Still a question?

We have our clear answers ready for you.

You can find all frequently asked questions on www.OkiOki.be. But here you already have some answers.

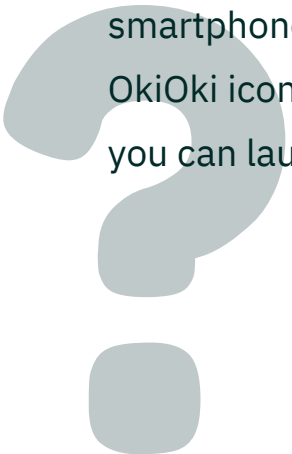

Why can't I find OkiOki in the app store?

OkiOki is not an app in the strict sense. You use OkiOki by surfing to www.OkiOki.app, on your PC, tablet or smartphone. On your tablet or smartphone you can always add the OkiOki icon to your homescreen. This way you can launch her just like any other app.

Hoe does OkiOki get access to my bank accounts?

OkiOki connects with your bank account via the open banking standards as described by the EU. Therefore, OkiOki's mother company 33reasons NV has obtained a 'PSD2' license from the National Bank of Belgium. This requires OkiOki to comply with strict security, safety and privacy policies with regards to the data it collects, handles and stores.

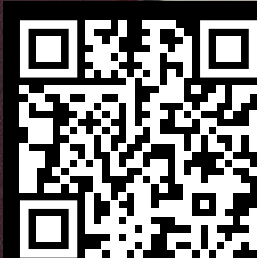

In practice you link your bank account by giving your consent from within the OkiOki app. Therefore, OkiOki will redirect you to your bank where you can give your consent via Itsme or with your bank card and bank card reader.
